Makueni County Project

On October 2nd, 2025, Merlik Foundation partnered with Paper Hearts Foundation to conduct a mentorship workshop at Kivandini Primary School in Makueni County. A team of seven mentors traveled to the school to engage with boys on mental health and wellbeing topics, aligning with Merlik Foundation's mandate to create empowered young men. The mission demonstrated the value of strategic partnerships in extending the organization's reach and impact beyond Nairobi.

The response from students and school administration was overwhelmingly positive, with boys actively participating and requesting more frequent sessions. Students identified twelve priority topics they want addressed, including sex education, suicide awareness, career guidance, peer pressure, substance abuse, and self-esteem. This feedback provides clear direction for designing future programming that meets the actual needs of young people in the community.

The partnership has established a framework for addressing urgent mental health issues while building long-term relationships with students at Kivandini Comprehensive School.

Uasin Gishu County Project

On October 20th, 2025, Merlik Foundation successfully launched its mentorship program at United Matunda Academy in Uasin Gishu County.

The launch event brought together 28 teenage boys (ages 13-18), school administration, teachers, and community representatives to officially introduce the program framework ahead of its January 2026 commencement. The parties signed a collaborative framework agreement, marking a significant milestone in expanding Merlik Foundation's reach to diverse communities across Kenya.

The launch achieved critical objectives including the formal introduction of program beneficiaries, recognition of lead coaches Calvin Moturi and Clement Wambulwa, and clear communication of the program's focus on discipline, self-awareness, and leadership development. Coaches received comprehensive resource packages including mentorship manuals, program t-shirts, and name tags to ensure quality program delivery. The event demonstrated strong institutional support and operational readiness, with all 28 selected boys attending and expressing commitment to the program. The program will officially begin in February 2026.

Partnerships for Good - International Mens' Day 2025

The Forge the Bond Fathers-and-Kids Adventure Day, hosted by Yazuaafrika and proudly partnered by Merlik Foundation, was a resounding success. Designed for fathers and children aged 9–17, the event brought families together for a full-day experience of connection, bonding, and adventure. The morning kicked off with an energizing hike along the scenic Kawamwaki Waterfall Trail, setting the tone for meaningful conversations and shared memories between dads and their children.

The afternoon session at Liquor Library, Tigoni, was filled with engaging games, relaxation, and family-centered activities that further strengthened the bonds formed earlier in the day. With smooth logistics, vibrant participation, and a warm community atmosphere, the event achieved its goal of fostering stronger father-child relationships. As partners, Merlik Foundation was delighted to support an initiative so closely aligned with our mission of nurturing positive mentorship and empowering young people through intentional engagement.

Beneficiaries Desk

This quarter marked inspiring milestones for our beneficiaries. Our first King, Peter Masila, is set to graduate on 28th November 2025 with a Bachelor of Commerce (Finance)—a proud moment that reflects his dedication and the impact of our continued support.

Our second King, Max Omondi successfully completed his KCSE and is now preparing to transition into university next year, marking yet another achievement in our mentorship and education journey.

As we look ahead, Merlik Foundation remains committed to expanding our reach. Plans are underway to welcome more boys into the program in the coming years, strengthening our mission to empower bright, deserving young men through education, mentorship, and holistic support.
